

One Doctor—Only One

No sense in running from one doctor to another! Select the best one, then stand by him. No sense either in trying this thing, that thing, for your cough. Carefully, deliberately select the best cough medicine, then take it. Stick to it. Ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for throat and lung troubles. Sold for nearly seventy years. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Why try this thing, that thing, for your constipation? Why not stick to the good old reliable family laxative—Ayer's Pills? Ask your doctor if he approves this advice.

Farm Products.

Farmers have finished harvesting and most of them have received good returns for their labor. Hay was an average crop. Farmers have a different method of laying their ground down to grass than they used to and saves considerable labor by sowing the grass seed in their sweet corn the second time of hoeing and then it comes up stronger than when sown with the grain. Sweet corn was a little better than an average crop although the frost hurt some pieces. There were two cornsheds running here and each one put up about 150,000 ears. Apples are not very plenty although some will have a few hundred bushels to sell, and the most of the farmers will have enough for their own use. Potatoes yielded bountifully, some pieces averaging 200 bushels or more to the acre.

The New Grange Hall.

The Grangers of Norway are soon to have one of the newest Grange Halls that there is in the County. The building is located on Whitman street, less than 300 feet from Main street, and only a short distance from the present Grange Hall. The building is a three story structure and has all the modern improvements. It has a frontage of thirty-seven feet. The entrance is on the front side with a piazza supported by six turned columns, 16 inches in diameter, making a very pretty entrance.

On the left hand side of the door is a check room 15x18 feet with a small window for checking purposes, while on the right is the stairs and a room 15x6 which will be the gents' toilet. There will be large double doors opposite the entrance door which leads into the hall, and a large room 15x24 feet and 9 feet high. The dining hall is lighted by ten good sized windows, three of which are set close together on each side of the room and has the appearance of a large window. At the rear of the hall is the kitchen 15x30 feet. There is a long cabinet to be built along the wall next to the hall and it is to have doors open on both the kitchen side and the dining room side, so that it can be easily used from either room. There is a door on the north-east corner of the building which leads into either the dining hall, the kitchen or up the back stairs, which leads to the stage on the floor above.

The stairway which leads to the hall on the second floor is in two sections with a good sized landing and will be lighted by a window on the south side and a stained glass window on the west side. At the head of the stairs on the second floor is a hallway similar to the one on the first floor, and on the left of it is the first room, 15x18 feet, while on the right is the ladies toilet 15x6 feet, and the stairs leading to the attic. Large doors enter into the hall which is the same size as the dining hall below, with windows arranged similar to those in the dining hall. A large dome in the center of the ceiling is a perfect circle 10 feet in diameter and 5 feet in depth. This is arranged with a ventilator in the center. Around the edge of the dome will be placed electric lights.

The stage on the east end of the hall is 15x24 feet and is raised some 3 feet above the hall floor. The floors throughout the building are to be hard pine, oak stained. The whole building will be heated by a hot air furnace in the basement which is being installed by A. L. & F. E. Goss of Lewiston. The Norway and Paris Street Railway Company are fitting the building up with electric lights. These are to be so fixed that they can be turned on and off in different combinations as may be required.

L. M. Longley has charge of the plumbing. Russell Bros., of Norway are the builders of the grange hall and it is certainly a fine as well as a fine looking building.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Patrons of Central Park Casino this week have found the bill all that could be desired.

The concert given by the 7 piece orchestra Tuesday night was worthy of special mention and will be used each Tuesday night as special attraction. GRAFTON.

Some Early History.
A family who came to Grafton about 1845 was that of Ira Morse. Morse built a log cabin beside the old Coos road a quarter of a mile or so from what later became Upton Back street. This road left the county road at what is called Nilos' opening near the foot of Speckle mountain.

The old corduroy is still in the ground. It then went back of North road, crossed Cedar brook and then merged into the other direction, from the Grafton main road it passed between Sumner P. Davis' house and barn and then up the hill and through the pass along the foot of the north side of Saddleback mountain. It is said to have been built about 1770.

In 1846 a new road a mile and a quarter in length was surveyed from the east end of Ira Morse's lot to the county road running from Umbagog lake to Bethel. The latter had not always been a county road. James Brown used to have a gate across it. This however was removed about this time.

Ira Morse came from Otisfield. His wife was Abigail Edwards. They had three sons and one daughter. Alpheus married Hannah Knibball of Raynham, married Esther Richardson of Upton. They separated after their children were grown up. He now lives in Upton. Betsey E. married Frederick Bartlett and lives with her son, James Wellington Bartlett on the Ira Morse farm. Bennett Morse married Jerusha Peaslee of Upton in which town he now resides. Ira Morse died in 1874 aged 72.

A question which has not yet been answered is, where did Grafton get its name? It is said to have been given by Hannah, mother of Captain James Brown, the honor being given to her because she was the oldest person in the town at the time of its incorporation.

Where she got the name is not known, simply one which struck her fancy. It is possible, however, that it suggested to her the name of Grafton, Mass., from which place many of the inhabitants of Dixfield came. Upton may have had a similar origin.

Burglary and Forgery.

The decline of bank burglary as a fine art is accounted for in the annual report of the Pinkerton's National Detective agency to the American Bankers' association. The former professional bank burglar who operated with delicate tools, it declares, has been replaced by the desperate "yegg," who works clumsily with dynamite or nitro-glycerine in banks in small communities with little or no police protection.

This change, the Pinkerton assert, has been brought about by the rigorous policy of pursuit and prosecution adopted by the banks in recent years, which has made the career of the skilled burglar too risky to be worth the trouble. Like the accomplished safe burglar the professional forger has, according to the Pinkerton's report, become a character of the past. The former bands, it is asserted, have been broken up and most of their members have been convicted or are fugitives from justice in foreign countries. But one really dangerous organization of forgers, it is declared, is still in existence, and the Pinkerton's know the identity of the members, and are only waiting to find the presenters of the forged checks or to perfect the evidence for the arrest and conviction of the principal.

The forgers of the present day are mostly amateurs or beginners. In discussing this class of crime the report comments on the efficiency of French police methods. The former professional bank sneak thief, it is said, has now turned his attention to private houses, hotels and sleeping cars. The professional bank hold-up robbers have been convicted or driven from the country. Such hold-ups, as there have been, have been of purely local origin, undertaken by desperate men.

That U. of M. Strike.

The U. of M. "student strike" because of hazing has been practically ended, and the students have returned to their studies. To one outside the school this seems the sensible thing to do. In a few years from now the "student body" will see it is better to obey the rules of the school made by the men whose business it is to govern the school in the way that their experience tells them is best for the students and the school. Perhaps better rules could be made. The students could make better rules but that does not count. The people of Maine, who pay much money to this school and the parents who send their children there, are officials are competent for the places they occupy. They do all this that the boys and girls may learn much more than many of the men and women of today had an opportunity to do. They want the students to study, and to learn as much as this school can teach. To give their attention to this their part of the work. To obey the rules of the school as they agree to do when they enter the school; to be good soldiers in the ranks till they shall have perfected themselves to fill higher positions.

1000 Successful Men.

I have on my desk, says a writer in the Juvenile Record, a list of 1000 successful men of this nation. By "successful" I do not mean mere money makers, but men who have given us new conceptions of steam, electricity, construction work, education, art, etc. These are the men who influence our moral as well as physical lives. They construct for better things.

How these men started in work is interesting. Their first foothold in work is a fine study. Three hundred started as farmers' sons. Two hundred started as messenger boys. Two hundred were newboys. One hundred were printers' apprentices. One hundred were apprenticed in manufacturing. Fifty began at the bottom of railway work. Fifty—only 50—had wealthy parents to give them a start.

GILEAD.

Milan R. Bennett and wife are rejoicing over the birth of a little daughter. Alma Heath has returned from her western visit last week, and gone to Gorham. This is the season for large potatoes. A. D. Wright dug three whose combined weight was eight pounds. Mr. L. E. Foster of Shelburne has been in town with his potato digger. He made quick work of harvesting a large field for George E. Leighton.

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. Emma Luse, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has given her health and her advice is free.

To the Farmer Who Wants to Retire.

Whenever I hear a farmer say that he is going to move to town and "retire," I pity him.

He cannot retire. After a quarter of a century at work he cannot suddenly become inactive. I have seen many try but none succeed. If a farmer gives up all labor he grows restless and discontented. Muscles used actively for 25 years will atrophy when their owner moves to town. His health fails; he grows older faster than when he was on the farm.

What, then, shall the farmer do when he moves into town? If he adjusts himself in the right way to the change it will make a peaceful and happy life for him; if he does it in the wrong way he will become restless and before long will die. This accounts for the number of widows of farmers you find in town. The secret of it all is so simple that the average farmer is apt to pass it by.

The farmer should follow as nearly as possible his old manner of life; he must still exercise his muscles. Those are the two requisites; first, the same exercise as he formerly had; second, continued exercise. The wife does not suffer so much by moving to town, for her duties are not lessened to such an extent. The farmer should have a son on his farm so that he may give him advice and still have something that he can think of as his own, instead of a mere bank account. For there is a big difference between a herd of cattle and a row of figures.

There is some dissatisfaction about renting the old home place, for in general a rector does not have the same pride in the farm as the owner. It tears the farmer's heart to see his farm going down hill. If he has his son on the farm he can better take care of it. He is more certain of better treatment to the land; and the two can work more in unison.

The farmer who has gone to town to live should have his own horse and buggy. To put a son on the farm is a great deal; but the second world did not give him such keen pleasure. Soon he was absolutely restless. What did he do? He brought in his team from the farm and worked with a gang that was excavating for the high school building. And that farmer had an auto of his own! The farmer who comes to town, who gives up all activity and becomes a chronic idler, is always unhappy and soon becomes diseased. The unused muscles fall an easy prey to disease and life becomes a burden.

If the farmer has already given up all interests on the farm he should get some job where he can work in the open air. The sun will do him good.

$75 Prize.

At the New England Fruit Show held at Boston, Maine, came within one of winning the sweepstake prize for the best barrel of apples on exhibition in the hall, and then it was only a question of variety. Baldwin being the variety preferred over a barrel of Greenstein shown by Arthur A. Herick of Norway. This was a prize of $100 and it went to C. E. Hardy, who lives on the side of Mt. Kearsage, N. H. Mr. Herick of Norway carried off the $75 prize for the best single box of apples. Mr. Herick lives at North Norway on the Henry Herick farm.

Uncle Sam Takes a Hand.

All express companies organized for the purpose of handling liquor in violation of the prohibitory law of Maine will be driven out of business after January 1st by orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

These orders so regulate the transportation of spirituous liquors that it will be impossible for this class of express companies to do business as they have for five years.

The rules for which there are three are sweeping and drastic in effect. They provide, first, that no common carrier can receive for transportation any package of liquor unless the contents and quality are plainly marked on the cover; second, that the name of the consignee shall be his true name and that the package cannot be delivered to any other party without a written order from the consignee; and third, that no C. O. D. orders shall be taken.

The express company or its agents cannot act as agent for any party ordering liquors or for any liquor house. The violation of any of these rules is punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000. Of course the rules apply all over the country as well as to Maine.

I. A. Andrews Injured.

I. A. Andrews was injured quite badly while riding through No. 4, Lovell, last Friday by an automobile. The horse being a young one became frightened and jumped suddenly, throwing him into the wheels and dragging him some distance, smashing the wagon and harness badly.

The horse was caught and Mr. Andrews was taken up in an unconscious condition. No bones were broken but he was badly shaken up and bruised about his head and face.

Barbour Durgin of Bridgton has been visiting at Wm. Gammon's and relatives' the past week.

J. B. Haskell and wife of East Waterford have visited their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hilton.

John Adams had an old-fashioned husking last Saturday evening. A goodly number were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams and son Roger are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Frost of Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Richards of North Waterford have been stopping with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sawyer, a few days the past week.

Mrs. J. C. Sawyer and grandson, Carroll McAllister, made a short visit to her brother, C. H. Stearns, of East Stoneham, who is in very poor health, Sunday.

Guests Should Not Make Suggestions.

The guest who is constantly making suggestions is not among those most truly liked. She makes her offer in good faith, but is more than apt to be interfering. She cannot know her hostess's ways and means, and her limitations and a matter that seems simple to the visitor may be fraught with impossibilities to the housekeeper.

And the best way of avoiding falling into these errors is not to make one's self too much at home when visiting.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make a mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

CHICAGO MERCHANT MAKES STATEMENT.

After Spending Thousands of Dollars and Consulting the Most Eminent Physicians, He Was Desperate.

CHICAGO, ILLS.—Mr. J. G. Becker, of 134 Van Buren St., a well-known wholesale dry goods dealer, states as follows:

"I have had catarrh for more than thirty years. Have tried everything on earth and spent thousands of dollars for other medicines and with physicians, without getting any lasting relief, and can say to you that I have found Peruna the only remedy that has cured me permanently."

"Peruna has also cured my wife of catarrh. She always keeps it in the house for an attack of cold, which it invariably cures in a very short time."

Great Care Taken in Making Spools.

White Birch from Which They are Made Must be Saved Before Warm Weather.

Few persons realize the great care necessary in the production of timber for the manufacture of the common spool sold in the stores on which thread is wound. The various steps involved in its manufacture are all most intricate.

The green logs are brought to the mill during the fall or winter in four foot lengths, and are first sawed lengthwise into bars or "squares." These bars are made four feet long whenever possible and are square in cross sections of various sizes, depending on the size of the spool desired.

The bars must all be sawed off before the first of June, preferably before the first of May, in order to prevent staining. Round logs with the bark on begin to stain as soon as warm weather sets in, usually about the middle of May.

By the middle of June three foot bolts are usually stained throughout their entire length, and by the first of August for four foot bolts are entirely stained. Soon after this white streaks begin to appear in the wood and it loses strength.

Whole stems left in the wood stain for only two or three feet at both ends, but the rest of the material is not so clean and white as when winter sawed during the first season. Best results are obtained by sawing the wood while it is frozen.

With clear white birch of the best quality, practically one cord of large knots and red heart, two cords of round logs yield 1,000 board feet of spool bars.

With the ordinary run of material, however, it takes from two and one-half to three cords to make 1,000 feet of bars. Exceptionally poor material, practically cubed, has been known to run six cords to the thousand feet of bars.

The sawing of the logs into such small bars makes much sawdust waste, and half a cord of sawdust waste has actually come from a single cord of birch.

Immediately after sawing the green bars are stacked in open piles out of doors, but under cover. The air has free access to them, and they are usually seasoned for several months.

When it is desired to use them they are put into a dry kiln to complete the seasoning. It is essential that seasonings should be thorough since the slightest change in the size of the spool after manufacture makes it impossible for the delicately adjusted machines now in the cotton mills to wind the thread upon it.

The manufacture of the kiln dried bars into spools differs slightly in various mills, though the general process is the same. The bars are first cut into the short pieces the exact length of the spool desired, and these are then cut through a lathe which turns out the spool. In many cases these lathes are a tireless automatic. The best of them work with great speed and accuracy and turn out spools at the rate of one a second.

At this stage the spools are rough and must be smoothed off so that the thread may not be cut and broken in the winding. This smoothing is done by rolling for half an hour or more together with several balls of wax and paraffine in a large hollow cylinder. This is the general process by which the ordinary sewing spools are made, and they are then sorted, culled and shipped.

The very large spools, however, must be made in three pieces. A cylindrical piece several inches long and threaded at each end serves as the body of this spool, and screwed on to the body piece and glued. The spool is then completed by being turned on a lathe and is smoothed and polished with sand paper.

The largest of these three-piece spools holds 12,000 yards of the thread and between them and the smallest, that holds only twenty yards, there is every possible graduation in size and shape.

Farm Buildings Burned.

Thursday morning at about 1 o'clock the farm buildings belonging to Stephen Lewis Knight, situated on the road leading from Bolster's Mills to Bell Hill, were burned.

Mr. Knight and wife were awakened by the smell of smoke and found the roof of their dwelling all consumed. The neighbors were aroused who hastened to the scene but only a few articles of clothing and bedding were saved, also Mr. Knight's beloved violin with a part of his music.

The origin of the fire was a defective chimney. Insurance in the Harrison Town Company.

The Gray Fad.

There is every reason to hope the gray fad in interior decoration will become more or less lasting. There is a very new two-toned wall paper in gray just put upon the decorator's shelves. It shows a soft neutral color not very far removed from white and having on its surface a pleasantly dim outline of trees in different grays.

This, with a few willow chairs stained gray, will form a delightfully restful background for furniture already too ornate or overcolored.

With a colorless background and a slight design, or none at all, against which to place the usual array of curios called furniture, there may be more hope of surroundings comfortable to the eye.

Purest Flour

"Of the various qualities of flour obtained from the same wheat, the lower grades are those most contaminated with grease, dirt, and objectionable bacteria; the freedom of flour from these increases with its purity."

The purity of William Tell flour is due to the costly equipment and exceptional care to keep the grain and flour clean.

The wheat is stored in hermetically sealed tanks at the big mills of Ansted & Burk Co.

Before grinding, it is cleaned six times. Neither grain nor flour ever touches anything but the bright, clean surfaces of dust-proof machinery. Even the flour bags are sewed up by machinery.

An Old Fashioned Husking.
There was an old fashioned husking at Perley McKusick's Friday night. A fine time is reported. 75 took supper. After supper they went up in the hall and had a dance, music by Thomas and Higgins.
It was the same hall Fiddler Gee used to play in for Thanksgiving balls over 50 years or more ago, and built by Major Elias Berry, one of the first settlers of the town, who came from Andover, Mass., in Feb. 1794. He started the 11th with his wife and three children on an ox sled, and was eight days on the road. At this time people would consider it quite an undertaking.

There's one thing about football. There's not a supple of any kind of commercialism in this sport. It's for blood every time. And considerable of the blood flows, although not so much as used to be the case. The record-breaking crowds come out to see this sport which is the most thoroughly on the level of any ever enjoyed. A few broken bones don't count.

FRYEBURG.

Prof. Isaac Walker, principal of Pembroke Academy, a greater part of the time since 1863, died Friday in Pembroke, N. H. He was born in Fryeburg in 1842, and was graduated from Dartmouth in 1863. For 25 years he was an ordained Congregational minister. In the early part of the Civil War he was a member of a cavalry company composed of Dartmouth students.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Florence and Mrs. Dr. E. H. Hill of Pembroke and one son, Arthur Walker of Concord.

Col. Enoch Farrington.

Colonel Enoch C. Farrington, for over half a century a prominent figure in the public life of Maine, died at 3:30 Sunday morning at his residence, from a complication of diseases. He was born at Fryeburg 76 years ago and leaves a widow and daughter.

He was for 20 years clerk to the State board of railroad commissioners, for nearly 20 years inspector general of rifle practice in the National Guard, was formerly employed in the railway mail service and the customs department of the federal government. Portland served in both branches of the State legislature and the executive council and was the secretary of the Maine Sportsmen's Club and Game Association since its organization.

Col. Farrington was a son of Vere Royce and Hannah (Barker) Farrington. His education was gained in the common schools of his native town and during the years of his early manhood he was a teacher. He married Emma C. Haley of Warrenton, N. Y., who with a daughter, Margaret Vere C. Farrington, one brother, Southwell Farrington of Lowell, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. S. W. Fife of Fryeburg, survive.

George Haley of Brownfield, who has taught eight years in Japan, is now one of the instructors in Fryeburg Academy. They are here so as to be near their aged parents. Mrs. Haley's mother, who lives in Brownfield, is in poor health.

NORWAY, OCT. 27, '09.

DEAR FRIENDS:—

It is some time since you heard from us. We have been too busy buying and getting in the new goods to take time for writing. Do you need new underflannels? We have a new line for 25c, full size just the weight for housekeepers. For cold people, heavier ones at 50c, 75c, $1.00, etc. Do you need a flannellette wrapper or the cloth to make one? We have both at low prices. Our outing nightrobes must be O.K. both in quality and price, else they would not go so fast. In heavy cotton, fleeced and wool hose, we have our usual fine line, hard to beat in a country village. Have you need of a new coat or suit? We cordially invite you to inspect our line if you decide to have the suit made, don't forget we have new goods both in novelties and staple goods at prices as low as the lowest. When you are in the store just step down in the basement and look over our new line of kitchen goods. In fact when you are on the street, step in and see if you don't find something, something you would like to exchange some of your money for.

Sincerely yours,
S. B. & Z. S. PRINCE.
